Khaled leaves Britain Meets president in Paris today By an Arab News Correspondent

FIVE YEARS WARRANTY

VOL. VI NO. 197

GENEVA, June 12 - King Khaled arrived here from London Friday after a three-day official visit to Britain. He left Buckingham Palace in the morning, where he was seen off by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. The King is due in Paris Saturday for a short visit and then he will return to Geneva for two days before beginning his official visit to Spain Monday.

The visit of King Khaled and Defense Minister Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz to Paris for talks with French President François Mitterrand on Saturday is in response to an invitation from Mitterrand, Prince Sultan said Thursday.

The French president's invitation underlines his government's willingness to forge new bilateral relations between Saudi Arabia and France at the earliest opportunity. Mitterrand lost no time in dispatching his brother, Major Mitterrand to Sandi Arabia with a message for the King, as soon as his election victory was apparent.

In Saturday's talks, the Israeli raid on the lraqi-French-built nuclear plant is likely to figure highly. Last week Mitterrand expressed strong condemnation of the attack, but the French have so far avoided committing themselves to rebuilding the plant, Prince Sultan spoke to reporters after a "very successful" round of talks with British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington. Prince Sultan reported he was standing in for Fore-ign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal, who was unable to take part in the state visit to Britain following the Israeli raid, and is currently attending the Arab Foreign Ministers' emergency conference in Baghdad.

The talks between Prince Sultan and Lord Carriagton found a large measure of agree-ment on both sides. Prince Sultan reported. Lord Carrington agreed, remarking that he welcomed the opportunity to discuss the Middle East and the European Peace Initiative before assuming the Chairmanship of the European Economic Community Council of Ministers at the beginning of July.

The King's successful state visit was followed by Friday visit of British Minister for Trade, Cecil Parkinson to Saudi Arabia until June 18. Parkinson is accompanied by a group of British businessmen and will meet ministers and heads of major organizations. His visit begins in Jeddah from where he will travel to Yanbu to see the new industrial city. He will then fly to Rivadh and the Eastern Province for visits to ARAMCO and the Saudi Government Railroad Organization.

During King Khaled's state visit the announcement was made that the Saudi govemment has donated $735,000 to the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh, Britain's oldest medical institution. Major General Rida Khalifa, head of medical services for the armed forces presented the check, which will be used for the college's planned $3.15 million postgraduate residential-teaching com-

By French AEC Iraqi A-bomb ruled out

PARIS, June 12: (R) — The French Atomie Energy Commission, which sup-plied the Tamuz reactor to Iraq, said Thursday it would have been "impossible" for the Iraqis to have used the reactor to produce atomie weapon charges. In its first comment since the Israeli air strike on the installation, an AEC press statement issued through the French News Agency gave a series of reasons why it thought the Iraqis could not make a bomb with the Tamuz installations. "Even in the extreme case the breaking of all undertak-ings and controls," it said, "the interruption of supriy of enriched granium which would immediately result would render impossible the production of significant quantities of fissile material for military use."

The agency noted Iraq was a party to the non-proliferation agreements and that the IAEA in Vienna had inspected "all Iraqi nuclear activities, and notably the reactor of Soviet origin in service in the same center. These controls were open as the IAEA recently confirmed," the French agency said.

It said the research and development program on the French-supplied reactors was "undertaken jointly by French and Iraqi team," Furthermore, it said, the installations were specifically designed for "scientific and technical research and training of personnel

"Any attempt to use them for the production and diversion of nuclear materials for military use would necessitate major alterations and manipulations incompatible with the normal process of the scheduled scientificprograms, which would thus not be able to escape inspections." The agency said the Osirak type of reactor was "very badly adapted" to production and diversion and concentrated material.

"Certain calculations, while based on accurate physical data are unrealistic, because they do not take into account the constraints imposed by the neutron count figuration of the sys ational despite the state of war (with Iran), ... tem," the agency said. die in Moscow's subway blaze

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP) - At least seven persons may have died in a smoky fire that struck a busy Moscow subway station Wednesday night shortly after rush honr, Western sources reported Friday. The deaths, if confirmed, would be one of the most serious accidents ever on the famed Moscow "metro" system.

Western observers who saw ambulance activity early in the blaze, speculated that scores of people could have been injured. A Soviet source said a large number of people reportedly suffered from smoke inhalation, which could have required a large number of Subway and medical authorities, however, refused Friday to confirm any reports on casualties. The origin of the blaze was unknown, but subway officials had told one reporter Thursday that electrical equipment had burned out.

Western sources, quoting eyewitnesses, said authorities removed what appeared to be seven bodies from the station after crowds had left the scene earlier Thursday. Policemen at the scene Wednesday night had told a reporter that there were no injuries.

Security Council to meet; Arabs demand sanctions

BAGHDAD, June 12 (Agencies) - Iraq's Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadi left Baghdad for New York Friday, to attend the U.N. Security Council emergency meeting requested by his government in the wake of the Israeli air strike against Iraq's nuclear research center, Baghdad Radio reported. Talking to airport newsmen before his departure Hammadi said he will ask the council to "adopt effective and practical measures" against Israel, "now that its purpose has been denounced by the whole world." But the United States will veto any move in the United Nations Security Council to impose mandatory sanctions against Israel for its bombing attack on an Iraqi nuclear reactor, an administration official said Fri-

Hammadi's departure came the day after an emergency meeting of Arab foreign ministers here decided to clall on all nations in the world to break off diplomatie relations with Israel, following its bombing of the nuclear research center near Baghdad last Sunday. A three-member committee appointed by the Baghdad Foreign Ministers conference to represent the Arab viewpoint during the Security Council debate also left Kuwait for New York Friday, the Kuwait News Agency reported.

The committeet is composed of Kuwait Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmad, Algerian Information Minister Bualam Balsayeh and the Secretary General of the Arab League Chadli Klibi.

The Baghdad conference united the Arab world behind Iraq in demanding international sactions against Israel.

Arab League Secretary General Chadli Klibi said in a speech to the opening session that all Arab countries were threatned by Israel," We clearly see that Baghdad today after Damascus and after Beirut, is not safe from Israeli air raids," Klibi said,

IAEA requests Israel expelled

VIENNA, June 12 (R) — The board of gover-nors of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) Friday recommended that Israel be expelled from the organization because of its attack on an Iraqi nuclear plant. The board condemned Israel for the attack and urged IAEA member states to provide emergency aid to Iraq to help overcome the effects of the bombing.

The board's recommendation must be approved by the IAEA general conference in September before Israel could be expelled from septemer before Israel could be expelled from the agency, a spokesman said. In its statement Friday, the board also recommended that all IAEA technical aid to Israel be suspended and reminded member states of a United Nations resolution calling for a stoppage of all transfers of nuclear material to Israel. Of the board's 34 members, only the United States and Canada opposed the resolution, Australia, Sweden and Switzerland abstained.

JEDDAH, June 12 — Taxation laws affecting Americans working abroad are now being scrutinized by the U.S. Congress with liberal changes expected within a year, according to Larry Russel, the owner of a tax-sheltered enterprise who is visiting Saudi Arabia.

Russel said that he had been "reliably informed in Washington that the first $50,000 of foreign earnings and half of the next $50,000 will be completely exempted.

Russel who owns a cattle-feeding company in California, is sponsored here by Khamis Abdullah, of Haitham International Trading Resources. He hopes to start a similar business in the Kingdom using date seeds as part of the feed. He said that the current compromise being worked out in Congress is an improvement on the proposals made by the former government of President Carter. It will be carried out next year, he said, quoting sources the Senate Finance Committee sources concerned with Special Revenue Items. The bill is not drawn up yet, as it is still in the make-up stage where it is to be drafted.

The liheralization received added impetus when President Reagan came to the White House and the Congress went along with his tax reduction proposals which in turn will affect the nearly two million Americans, working abroad.

In a separate development, a tea-bag campaign has been launched to protest the government's policy of taxing non-resident Americans.

He said the taxation charges introduced in 1976 were driving American businessmen home and crippling U.S. exports abroad, as well as adding to unemployment at home. He described it as a totally bankrupt policy.

Thunayan meets EEC diplomats

JEDDAH, June 12 (SPA) — As part of the Kingdom's efforts to urge punitive measures against Israel by the International community and halt its repeated aggression on the Arab world, Deputy Foreign Minister Abdul Aziz Al-Thunayan met Thursday with heads of the European Economic Community (EEC) diplomatic missions and heads of non-permanent member states missions to the Security Council stationed here.

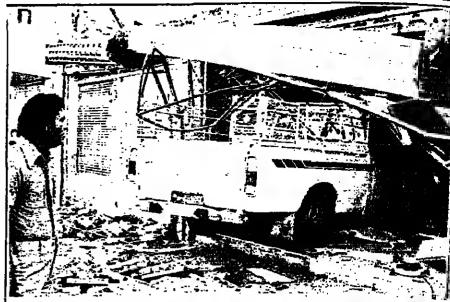

Thunayan received EEC representatives for Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, West Germany, Greece and Ireland separately. The Security Council heads of mission included ambassadors of Japan, Niger, Philippines and Mexico.

Discussions centered on the Israeli "treacherous" air raid on the Iraqi nuclear reactor which was set up for a hsolutely peaceful purposes. The Israeli action was described as a flagrant violation of international laws and a threat to peace and security not only in the region, but the whole world.

The grave consequences of allowing Israel to continue occupation of Palestinian and Arab land and repeating similar aggressions were also topics of discussion.

Armed forces praise Sadr; moburges trial armed forces commanders have publicly praised their dismissed commander-in-chief President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, but mobs m the streets of Tehran demanded his trial and execution.

Revolutionary guards fired automatic weapons into the air to disperse rival groups outside the headquarters of the joint chiefs of staff, while inside the country's top military officers thanked the president for his efforts "as soldier of Islam and Iran." Demonstrators besieged the president's official quartters, but he kept the country guessing about

Bani-Sadr, who was ousted as armed forces commander by Ayatollah Khomeini addressed a farewell message to the troops Thursday. In his message, Bani-Sadr expressed his appreciation for the way Iranian soldiers had "defended the fatherland and fought the American and Iraqi aggressors." He said he had done all in his power to "please God and preserve the independence of our Islamic country." He issued no other statement except the message to the military forces.

Court to hasten review of U.S. hostages' pact

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) - The U.S. Supreme Court agreed Thursday to issue a speedy ruling on the legality of the pact that freed the 52 American hostages

Acting at the request of the justice department and the Iranian government, the justices voted 8-1 to give expedited consideration to an appeal challenging the agreement. But there was no definite indication of whether a ruling would come before July 19, the next deadline, under the accord. Oral arguments will be heard June 24.

At stake are up to $4 billion in Iranian assets that under the agreement must be transferred out of the country to the jurisdiction of an international tribunal.

The government Wednesday asked for a quick review by the justices, hours after a Los Angeles-based engineering firm filed an appeal challenging the accord worked out by former President Carter.

RABAT, June 12 (AFP) - The visits of two high U.S. officials to Morocco were seen this week as confirmation of the rap-prochement between Washington and Rabat that began almost as soon as Ronald Reagan entered the White House.

U.S. sources here say there are two reasons behind the multiplication of American visitors: The Reagan administration's standagainst Libyan "expansionism" in north and central Africa, and Washington's rediscovery of Morocco's strategic position on both the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Energy Secretary James Edwards had talks Thursday and Friday with King Hassan II and senior officials on nuclear cooperation and other matters, and the U.S. Deputy Secretary of Defense Frank Carlucci is expected here Sunday. Carlucci and his delegation wil discuss with Moroc-can officials "all subjects of world and regional interest", the U.S. embassy said.

FUTILE MEETING

There is really no need to wait for the meeting of the U.N. Louncil, requested by the Arab countries to look into the Israeli attack on Iraq's nuclear installations. The Arabs have been that way before, and no doubt they will be there again. A predictable and not very instructive story. The only variables are the names and some of the minor details: the essence is always the same.

The meeting convenes under its present chairman (who, this time, happens to be Mexico's representative). All the permanent and temporary members are present. The Arab bloc has its representative, who stands up and recites the history of Israel's aggressive and piratical acts. The list is long and still growing. The international laws and customs flouted by the Israelis are explained in detail. The Arab spokesman then concludes by demanding direct international sanctions against the enemy.

It is then the enemy's turn to speak. Which he does at length, interpersing his discourse with sobs and screams: the suffering of the Jews in Europe during the thirties and forties: how the survivors still fear the same thing will happen again, how this clearly gives Israel the moral and legal right to launch its attacks against anyone, anywhere, at any time.

The British representative then stands to denounce the aggressive act, "in no uncertain terms." And is followed by the Frenchman, who does the same. The Soviet representative stands to say, "I told you so.."

America's man (or is it a woman this time round?) then takes the floor. Fingers covertly crossed, the representative declares America had no prior knowledge of the attack. America is still studying the laws relating to sale of weapons to foreign countries to see if an infringement had actually occurred. In any case, Washington had already stopped the shipment of four warplanes — so what more do you want, blood?

The representative then concludes in the same old way. America's relations to Israel will oot be less than great. Any attempt to obtain sanctions or expel the Israelis from the U.N. will, of course, be vetoed.

By then it is lunch time. So the meeting adjourns for 'further deliberations.'

Saudi Arabian press review

Friday's two newspapers Okaz the French role as a spearhead of and Al Jazirah highlighted King Khaled's visit to Britain, and the emergency Arab League meeting in Baghdad to discuss Israel's bombing last Sunday of an Iraqi nuclear reactor. The two papers also gave lead coverage to the Arab foreign ministers' decision to send a delegation to the U.N. Security Council meeting to support Iraq in demanding internaretaliation for its strike on the Iragi nuclear reactor. Newspaper editorials concentrated on the visit of King Khaled to France beginning Saturday and the Arah diplomatic moves to punish Israel for 'its treacherous

Reagan gets tough with Cuba

By Jeremy Taylor

Two decades ago after its victory over U.S.backed invaders at the Bay of Pigs, Castro's Cuba is bracing itself for new threats from its giant neighbor. The Cubans, who bave their own version of the domino theory, have watched as a psychological and diplomatic noose is tightened around the

Colombia and Costa Rica have broken diplomatic relations with Cuba this year. Relations with Ecuador, Portugal, Venezuela, Jamaica, even Panama, have cooled. American pressure was successful in cutting off a loan of 150 million German marks arranged for Cuba through the French bank

U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig is widely believed to bave plans for intensifying Cuba's pbysical isolarion, beginning with a naval blockade. Possible CIA support for anti-Castro Cuban exile groups in Florida has already been discussed in the United States this year, say the Cubans.

President Reagan bas made it clear be will not attend the resumption of the North-South dialogue in Mexico next October if Fidel Castro is there, and has been lohbying to prevent the 1983 UNCTAD summit from being beld in Cuba, Reagan's apparent enthusiasm for the role of Imperialist Uode Sam bas given Castro the opportunity to include in a fine flow of aoti-Yankee Rhetoric" We're ready to resist for 100 years," he roared to the Cuban Communist Party's secood congress last December, "if imperialism lasts that long."

Cuba would go to any lengths to resist any military advectures, Castro emphasized, warning that more Yankees would die than in the entire Second World War.'

The Cubans have been taking some very practical precautions too; 1981 is "this year of production and defense", and since December Castro has developed a new territorial militia, organized at community level, as a last-ditch bouse-to-bouse resistance, hacking up his military force of perhaps 200,000. The territorials are volunteers, training in their spare time, contributing a day's pay every month to the organizatioo; they are men and women, young and old, including veterans of Angola and Ethiopia and even the Bay of Pigs. On May Day this year, armed units of the oew force took nearly an bour to march briskly through Havana's Revolution Square, in the wake of a three-hour civilian parade.

At the same time, the Cuhan Communist Party's Ceotral Committee and Polithuro have been expanded, hringing in fresh blood in the shape of military and national mass organization delegates, women and more radical workers. Castro has been reflecting on the troubles of the Polish Party, which be ascribes partly to its neglect of its links with the

The Reagan administration is also seen as a wider threat in the area. In the eastern Caribhean, the revolutionary government in Grenada, a close ally and recipient of Cuhan aid, has accused Washington of deliherately sabotaging its attempt to build a new international airport. It has accused the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank of bowing to American pressure and holding np assistance to the island hecause of the same issue.

The fear of Cuhan meddling in the Caribbean has steadily grown in Washington since Jimmy Carter set up a Caribbean has steadily grown in Washingsince Jimmy Carter set up a Caribb task force at Key West two years ago.

"We have oo problems with Colombia or Venezuela," says Osvaldo Cardenas, who heads the party's Caribbean desk in Havana."They are obviously uoder pressure from the U.S. In the Caribbean, it is oot a question of understanding: the Caribbean understands us very well. It is a question of money. When you get too close to Cuba, you don't get any American money. We all know that."

Egypt seeks new funds for rat war By Shyam Bhatia

Egyptian planners are seeking fresh funds for a program to control the rat population explosion io the Nile valley. The ministry of agriculture bas exhausted last year's rat-fighting budget of $6 million and there are bopes that at least twice as much again will be forthcoming for the oew fiscal year, starting oext month. West Germany has already promised $8 million, and this is expected to be matched by an equivalent allocation from the Egyp-

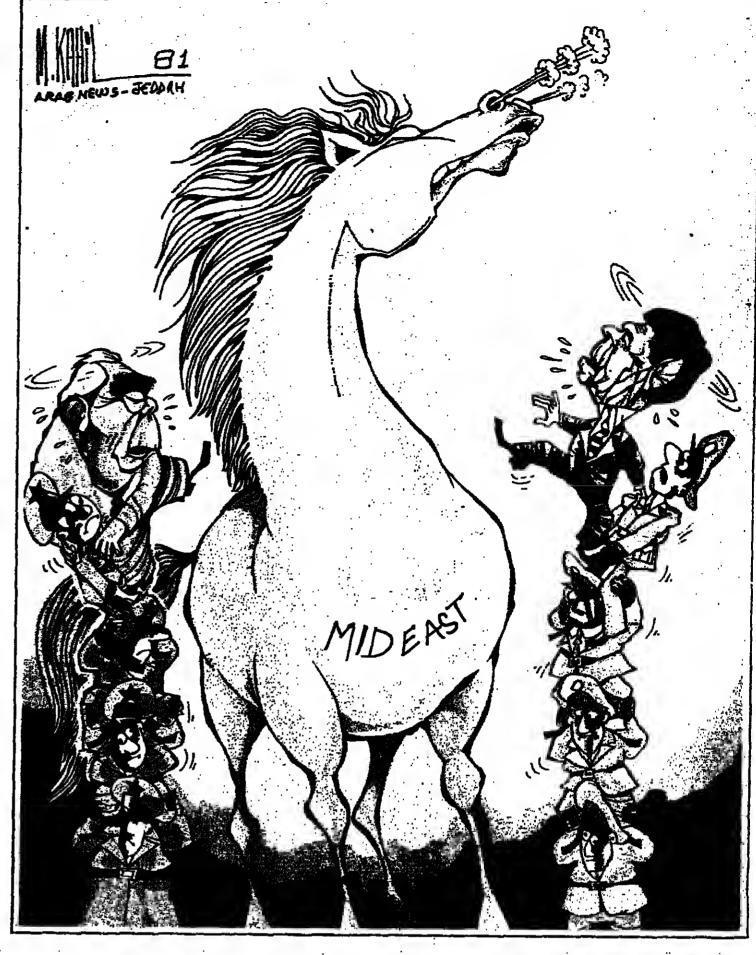

Without the extra funds, the oumber of rats in the Egyptian countryside could approach crisis levels within a matter of mooths, warns Dr. Abdul Latif Eissa, director of the Crop Protection Department in Cairo. Experts working with him estimate that rats already outnumber the human population by a factor of 10 to one, a total of approximately 400

This year the rats are expected to devour 25 per cent of the country's precious food grains. Maize is a favorite food, but rice, broad beans, sugar-cane and even crops of cotton are being eaten by the rats. The dominant breed of rat in the countryside, not just in Egypt, but also further south in Sudan and Ethiopia is known by one of three names, the field rat. Pharaonic rat or Arricanthis Niloticus.

At Cairo's Pest Research Institute Dr. Abdul Halim Kamel has listed five other varieties or rats also found in Egypt. He gives their Latin names as Rattus. Rattus Rattus, or the black rat, Rattus Alex . andrinus, Rattus Frugivorous, or the climbing rat and Rattus Norvegicus, also known as the ship rat.

The alarming growth in the rat population is popularly attributed to the gradual extinction of the rats' natural enemies, especially birds of prey such as owls and hawks that have been killed off by insecticides. Other predators, such as moogooses, have also been affected by the spreading human population that deprives them of their natural habitats. Another reason is the absence of the annual Nile flood, which would regularly drown millions of rodents. Since the High Dam was built this is no longer true, says Dr. Eissa.

Within the agriculture ministry, debate rages about the most effective methods of rat cootrol. Uotil last year the authorities favored the use of poisooous zinc phosphide by farmers, but the rats soon learned to avoid it. There was also coocern about its effect on children and livestock. New types of poisons, known as ann-coagulant baits, are now preferred because they are slow-acting and cause the rat to die from internal bleeding. -(ONS)

Israeli raid poses threat to nuclear safeguards

The Israeli raid on Iraq's nuclear reactor appears to threaten the system of international safeguards set up to prevent the spread of atomic bombs.

This point was made by Sigvard Eklund, director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) who described the Israeli attack as the most serious crisis the agency has faced. The 26-year old Vienna-based agency carries out inspections around the world to check that nuclear fuel supplies are going into power and research reactors rather than bombs.

Until oow the system has worked because oearly all states with a ouclear capacity have shown confidence that the agency was capable of fulfilling its task. Now, for the first time, a country bas challenged the system. Israel has said, in effect, it does oot trust the agency, which inspected Iraq's nuclear facilities last January and gave it a clean report.

Eklund stressed that Israel itself, which has the capacity to produce atomic weapons, was oot a signatory of the 1968 international Noo-Proliferation Treaty (NPT). "A non-NPT country has evidently not felt assured by our findings and about our ability to continue to discharge our safeguarding responsibilities but felt motivated to take military action, the Swedish official said this week. IAEA officials bave said Iraq was oot expected to bave the capability of making an atomic bomh for at least 10 years.

Israeli officials say there is little prospect of Israel accepting any form of international control as long potentially hostile. "This was our view before the Israeli air strike against the Iraqi ouclear plant and will most probably remain our position in the fore-seeable future," one official said. "The ann-Israel vote in the U.N. is automatic and all of our frieods realize it would be unrealistic to expect us to permit representatives of these hostile nations to inspect our facilities," the official said.

The U.N. agency currently bas 181 inspectors, responsible for 768 installations in 48 countries, and is currently recruiting more staff. Of the IAEA's 1981 budget of $89 million, some $25 million are earmarked for safeguards. Last year there were 1,100 inspections at over 500 installations. Some six million surveillance photographs were taken antomatically at intervals to detect any changes in procedure that might indicate the diversion of nuclear fuel.

To enjoy the benefits of nodear energy and research, developing countries have, in effect, to renounce aspirations to ouclear weapons since Western suppliers of ouclear technology are committed to preventing their proliferation.

At the same time an opinioo often expressed in the developing world is that, while denying small countries the right to possess ouclear weapons, the major powers are doing little to reduce their own

This opinion was echoed this wee' bee' apanese daily Asahi Shimbun, which alled for reinforcement of the non-proliferation system. It said: "The greatest obstacle is that the two superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union, are neglect-commentators have also condemned the Western states busy to cash in on the lucrative market for nuclear technology.

West Germany's liberal Sueddeutsche Zeitung blamed the Israeli raid on the inability and reluctance of the nuclear powers to guarantee nonproliferation of ouclear weapons, "India's atom bombs and Pakistani access are due to the political and economic opportunism of the U.S. Canada, France Belgium and Italy.

'The formula reads: join the noo-proliferation treaty to get nuclear technology, then terminate membership when they have put everything together," the newspaper said. There are signs that France, at least, will modify its previous vigorous nuclear sales policy as a result both of the Israels raid and also the change of government at home.

French premier wins people's confidence

France's new Socialist prime minister, Pierre Mauroy, has stepped into the international limelight for the first time during the final stages of campaigning for next week's National Assembly elections. Though he has been a well-known political force in France as mayor of Lille since 1973, this is Maurov's first taste of mass media attention.

He began a tour of the provinces last weekend. wooing popular support for the country's new Socialist administratico. Having elected Francois Mitterrand as France's first Socialist president with full executive powers, the French must now decide whether they want to see Socialist plans for nationalization of key industries and decentralization of government put into action by a Socialist national assembly.

Mauroy, 52, burly and working-class, was chosen by Mitterrand to quell French fears of a sharp movement to the extreme left. A large, squareshouldered man, he looks reassuring. He speaks the language of the working man, leaving Marxist rhetoric to the party's intellectuals.

After only a fortnight in power, he already seems to bave won a large measure of confidence in the country. Seventy-one percent of those questioned told the French weekly magazine L'Express they had confidence in him - a percentage which, as his aides agree, is far higher than that achieved by any other prime minister in the Fifth Republic.

But apart from raising the basic minimum wage by 10 percent, Mauroy's cabinet has taken few concrete steps to win the favor of the French electorate. His popularity lies mainly in his casual style - very different from the aloofness and conservative image of former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's Mauroy is a typical contherner, tenacious, bardworking and unpretentious. Born in the northern town of Cartigmes, a son of a school teacher and grandson of a wood-cutter, he was a faithful second-in-command to several Socialist Party leaders before being named prime minister. "I know workers well," he told the French magazine Paris Match just after taking office. "I know their problems and their worries because I shared them during my childhood and my adoles-

As he hegan his provincial tour in the small town of Trelissac in the central Bordogne region, his aides said he was glad to break away from the red tape of Paris and begin meeting the people who voted for Socialist change. "He's a man of the people," said Bernard Roman, an adviser Mauroy brought with him from Lille to Paris.

Several hundred supporters turned out to welcome the prime minister at Trelissac, He began by tentatively reading a speech before putting his notes aside and improvising. There was little hope of swift change, he said. But the quality of the working man's life would he improved. New housing programs would be started, new jobs created and retirement pensions boosted. "We must establish a worthwhile human relationship between the producer and the machine, in particular by stopping the mechanization of factories from adding to the number of unemployed,"

Criticizing what he called the inhuman monetarist policies of the Reagan administration in the United States which were pushing up interest rates and consequently strangling small busines promised to revitalize the French economy by ca ing new labor schemes. He hopes to introduce 35-hour working week which will create 90000 oew jobs within five years.

By the autumn, when thousands of school leavers join the ranks of the country's 1.7 miles unemployed, 650,000 jobs should be created. apprenticeship schemes, he said. "I want life to be worth living for everyone," he added.

Decentralization would be one of the govern ment's priorities, scaling down France's Panicontrolled bureaucracy. The power of the prefects, regional representatives of the government, work be lessened as local assemblies were set up. Logic and common sense would have more of a place in the French state than they did under Giscard d'Estaing, he said.

Mauroy is said to lack the brilliant mind of some of his contemporaries in the Socialist Party of his contemporaries in Michel Rocard, for example, who last year units. cessfully challenged Mitterrand become the ist presidential candidate. But as prime minime, he is considered a far safer bet by many French parties."I wouldn't vote for him as president a sandone councillor at Bordeaux who turned out to support Mauroy. "But I think he'll be a very good prime; minister. With Mauroy, you feel he won't do any thing stupid."

Staff at the Matignon, the prime minister's headquarters in Paris, also welcome the change of regime, according to Mauroy'a advisers. He shines official ceremony and security precannons, shaking hands with a doorman who in 15 years at the Matig non said it was the first time he had shaken hand with a prime minister. — (R)

RIYADH -- Pen-and-ink, water color and oli portraits done hy Pakistani artist Eqbal Mehdi will soon be exhibited here. The Riyadh exhibition of Mehdi's work follows the presentation of more than a dozen expositions of his paintings in Pakistan and other parts of the world.

The work of Mehdi was complemented in January, 1980 by the magazine produced in New York by the International Society of Arts. The magazine described Mehdi as, "the real master of pen-and-ink, he has his own exclusive style and technique, the lines seem so lively and speak for themselves.

"His pictures in water color give a new dimension to the whole idea," the magazine said, "It creates a lasting effect on one's mind and shows the insight feeling of its creator. "And the oil paintings seem so fascinating and appealing that one keeps on looking at them...his brush and paints seem so cooperaive, embracing each other, giving light touch to his brush, using delicate matching colors together to leave an impressive and indelible mark which is unforgettable."

Mehdi's most famous works, produced in 1973, are a number of original portraits of the Quaid-i-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah; they were prominently displayed in a "one-man-show" by the Arts Council of Pakistan in Karachi. These portraits gained so much notoriety that they were shown in the National Arts Gallery of Islamabad and later at Karachi University. At the same time, his portraits of "national heroes of the Pakistan movement" were internationally acclaimed and were exhibited at the Shakir Ali Museum in Lahore and at the Wah Ordinance factory.

Born in 1946, Mehdi showed tremendous skill in drawing sketches when he was 9 years old. His increasing popularity increased in 1969 when he had his first show at the Arts Council of Pakistan in Karachi. His latest portraits and oil paintings were exhibited at the council again in 1973.

A number of Mehdi's pen-and-ink draw-

Organ transplant changes forecast

LONDON - An extraordinary innovation in the storage process of freezing and thawing organ transplant material could radically change the future for this type of trans-plant, making the operation a simple, routine

Until now, human organs could not be kept in a frozen state because there was no way to restore them to body temperature without damaging them in the process.

Now a team of scientists led by James C. Toler at the Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta has come up with a microwave ouick-thaw device that safely serves the pur-

The device resembles a square-mouthed aluminum megaphone, with the large end custom designed to accommodate an electromagnetic field formed to the electrical properties of the freeze-stored organ (for promotong uniform heating). It is then set vertically on its small end and, packed with sand with the freeze-stored organ in place, it is subjected to a five-minute 200-to-400-wait microwave bath in a shielded vault.

Toler has used kidneys from dogs, which are the most similar to those of humans, for his four-year research. After 50 were thawed in this method, 35 were judged suitable for implantation. With this great step in organ transplant procedure, a nationwide and even worldwide network of freeze-storage organ bank should soon be a reality.

'Queen of Jazz' dies of cancer By Jerry Betcher

DURHAM, N.C., June 12 (LAT) -Mary Lou Williams, known as the "Queen of Jazz" for more than four decades and recognized as one of the major figures the art form has ever produced died here Thursday of cancer at the age of 71. An arranger, composer and teacher, as well as a superb keyboard artist, Miss Williams, since 1978, had lectured on jazz at Duke University.

A child prodigy, who became a professional pianist at the age of 12, Miss Williams' talent encompassed black spirituals and raetime, boobie, swing and bebop.

She was the second woman instrumentalist to make a name in the jazz field, which still is dominated by men. Lil Armstrong, planist and first wife of Trumpeter Louis Armstrong, was the first, but she never became as well known as Miss Williams

China hails peace bid

Talks with Pakistan fruitful, says India

NEW DELHI. June 12 (Agencies) -Indian External Affairs Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao returned here Friday after a four-day official visit to Pakistan during which he sought to assure leaders of that country of India's peaceful intentions.

Rao told reporters at Delhi airport that his talks with President Gen. Muhammad Zia ul-Haq and Pakisian Foreign Minister Agha Shahi were "fruitful and satisfactory. The dialogue will continue," the minister said, adding that Shahi will visit India later this been "purposeful and very satisfying" and the two sides had made a good start toward better understanding and harmony.

Shahi, asked if the two sides had disccused a proposal for a non-aggression pact or a no-war pact, replied: "The Simla agreement pledges both our countries to non-use of force. As to a non-aggression pact, let us continue our discussions. We have had only one round. We have taken an important step forward, but we have a long way to go".

The Indian minister said that cooperation and friendship between India and Pakistan made "good sense". They had many things io common. Rao said Pakistan had agreed to participate in the Indian trade fair in November. Its participation would open tremendous possibilities for future growth of trade between the two nations, he added.

Meanwhile, the Chinese Communist Party newspaper The People 's Daily said Friday the Indo-Pakistani talks showed "positive results" that marked "a contribution to peace in southern Asia." The paper noted that a joint communique signed by the two foreign ministers recognized each country's "sovereign right...to acquire weapons for its own defense."

"It is understandable that certain differences exist between India and Pakistan for historical reason," the newspaper said, adding that "outside forces" were trying to exploit these differences.

Compulsory voting

Marcos warning challenged

MANILA, June 12 (AFP) - Jaime Cardinal Sin Friday broke his silence over the Philippine presidential election and openly challenged moves by President Ferdinand Marcos to order compulsory voting.

The cardinal, the country's highest Roman Catholic official, dismissed a warning from Marcos that failure to vote in the June 16 poil would constitute a "mortal sin". He said that boycotting the election was no mortal sin, and "the state is bound to respect this honest decision of conscience and not impede its free exercise." independence to the former German colony. The radio said Botha told its correspondent the issue of United Nations forces in Southwest Africa during the transition to independence was among the problems discussed, and called it "the most tricky area of the negotiations' because it would involve changes and amendments to U.N. Security Council resolution 435.

The resolution, adopted Sept. 29, 1978, calls for a ceasefire in the 15-year war waged by hlack nationalists against South African troops, which would be followed by U.N.supervised elections for a constituent assembly. That body would lay the foundations for an independent state.

The SABC said sources close to the talks have indicated the United States so far has adopted an uncommitted stance on the extent of U.N. involvement in the territory during the period before independence elections. Clark, the highest-ranking American official to visit South Africa since former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's trip in 1978, Thursday met twice with Prime Minister P.W. Botha and with the foreign minister.

Shuttle problem traced to clip

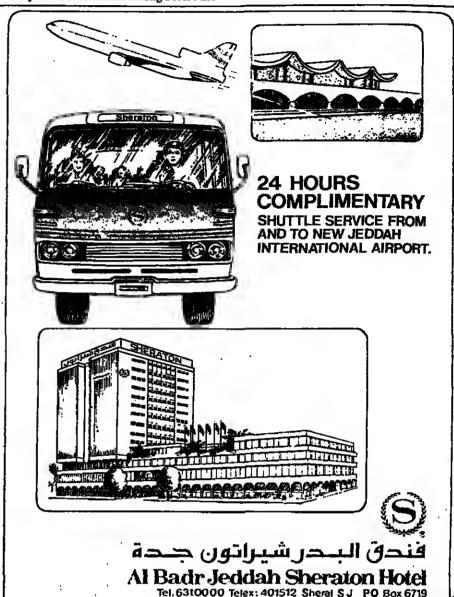

SPACE CENTER, Houston, June 12 (AP) - A weightless paper clip floating around in a power supply box caused one of the minor problems that arose during the flight of the U.S. space shuttle in April, officials have said

The paper clip, apparently overlooked before the launch, caused a short circuit in the power box. A backup unit provided the necessary power, however. The short was one of 52 minor problems that have been examined in two months of evaluation of the April 12-14 mission.

Joseph E. Mechelay, manager of the mission evaluation, said Thursday that all the problems were so minor the Columbia could be ready for its second launch long before the scheduled Sept. 30 liftoff. "If we had to today, we could make up our mind on all of the tiny fixes and go fly," he said.

Among the other minor problems was that areas on either side of the rear of the vehicle sustained higher temperatures than expected, Mechelay said. Engineering still do not understand what caused the problem, he said, but they now plan to more insulation tiles in the affected areas.

Mechelay said a large body flap near the underside of Columbia 's tail also took more heat than had been anticipated. The flap is used to maneuver the orbiter as it enters the atmosphere. The heat problem was traced to the flap being extended 14 degrees instead of the 8 to 9 degrees that had been planned.

... "We are making a determined effort to re-establish the stability of the dollar," Treasury Undersecretary Beryl Sprinkel told Reuters Thursday in an interview.

The dollar has made extraordinary gains this year at the expense of other major currencies. It recently rose to a four-year high against the German mark and a two-year high against the British pound.

The surge in the dollar's strength has prompted a chorus of criticism, from abroad. West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt complained that high U.S. interest rates, now running at about 20 percent, were artificially inflating the dollars's worth by luring money to America that would have otherwise been invested elsewhere. Sprinkel conceded this point, but added the Reagan administration wa not pursuing a policy of high interest rates.

about those high interest rates as he Schmidt) is." He noted that high interest rates have discouraged Americans from borrowing money to purchase cars and houses, traditionally considered crucial elements to the success of the U.S. economy.

Sprinkel also said high rates bave pushed up the cost of the budget by making government borrowing from the public more expensive. A number of private economists and government officials have predicted the dolfar will be surrendering some of the strength it has attained recently.

"I think you will see the dollar soften a little bit because of a lot of the money that has been attracted over here has been because of our high rates of interest," Treasury Secretary Donald Regan recently said in a television interview. Estimates by private economists suggest the dollar could lose from five percent to nearly half of the recent gains it has made against other currencies.

But Sprinkel said "any weakness in the dollar will be temporary," adding that there were several factors that would keep the dollar strong. These included a growing awareness around the world that President Reagan's economic program of big cuts in government spending and taxes would work and the U.S. central bank's commitment to slow the growth of money supply to combat

Sprinkel disagreed with the belief that the dollar's success depended on high domestic interest rates, saying: "Look at Japan and Germany. They bave had low inflation and low (interest) rates and their currencies have been very strong." some including former Carter administration Assistant Treasury Secretary C. Fred Bergsten, have complained that the dollar has become too strong and will eventually have an adverse impact on the American economy. They contend that too strong a dollar tends to discourage foreign from purchasing U.S. goods because they are nations and international agencies have pledged economic assistance totaling $1.17 billion to Pakistan for the coming fiscal year,

In addition, Pakistan was promised more than $110 million worth of special aid to help the country cope with the growing number of Afghan refugees now estimated at 2.1 mil-

Commenting on the outcome of the justended annual meeting of the World Bank consortium for aid to Pakistan, the chief Pakistani delegate Ejaz Ahmad Naîk said his government was "very grateful" for the "sub-stantial increase" in aid for fiscal 1982 starting this July 1.

He said this indicated that the international community was now "satisfied that we are moving in the right direction in . our economic management." Naik stressed that the steady inflow of refugees from Afghaniscan had created what was now recognized as "the largest single refugee problem in the world." The influx was continuing at a rate of 70,000 to 80,000 a month and the total "could reach three million by June 1982," he

Germany, Zambia sign technical tie-up accord

BONN, June 12 (AP) - Zambia and West Germany signed an agreement providing for technical cooperation between the two countries, the foreign office announced.

A spokesman said Thursday the new document supersedes a previous agreement. dating from 1966. He said the agreement"is the foundation for all future common plans in the area of technical cooperation between the Federal Republic of Germany and Zambia and, therefore, will at the same time be an important contribution for the further strengthening of the traditional good political and economic ties between the two countries." Fred Kazunga, a state secretary in the finance ministry, signed for Zambia. Berndt von Staden, a state secretary in the foreign office, signed for West Germany.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) — The Soviet Union has opened new doors to vast supplies of foreign grain, including a nod from the United States that it can buy more wheat and corn, the U.S. Agriculture Department has said.

An agreement reached earlier this week in London allows the Soviet Union — if it chooses — to buy an additional 6 million metric tons of wheat and com for delivery through Sept. 30.

Until it was lifted April 24, a partial embargo on grain sales restricted shipments to 8 million metric tons annually. The London agreement allows those to increase to 14 million tons without further discussions bet-

The department said in its latest analysis that the U.S. agreement followed other recent accords, including one with Canada that covers the sale of 25 million tons of grain likely to continue heavy in 1981-82 as a result of record livestock inventories and two poor production years in a row which depleted Soviet grain stocks," the report said.

Wednesday in which department analysts said there was no change in their previous produce 210 million metric tons this year.

Although short of Moscow's 1981 goal of 236 million tons, it would be a significant comeback from last year's short harvest of 189.2 million tons and the even smaller crop

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn. The report also noted that U.S. and Soviet officials in London agreed to seek a meeting later to "explore a new arrangement" for trade after Sept. 30, the date when a current five-year grain agreement expires.

Besides, the pact with Canada, the Soviet Union also has concluded grain agreements with India and Argentina, the report said.

Entrepreneurs back to fore in Mozambique

MAPUTO, June 12 (AFP) — Small business has enjoyed a dramatic revival in Mozambique since President Samora Machel decreed last year that the government "cannot waste its time selling eggs and matches."

But officials say the trend does not mean the state dogmas of Marxism and collectivism are being jettisoned. In the year or so that Mozambique has been able to turn its attention toward development and away from supporting the now-ended emancipation war in neighboring Zimbabwe, 2,800 private businesses have opened in this country, a high official said.

Britain in suspends 1,000 civil staff

LONDON, June 12 (R) - The British government suspended 1,000 of its civil servants without pay in an increasingly acrimonious wage dispute.

They were suspended, effective Friday, for refusing to bandle unemployment and child benefit welfare payments at a time of record joblessness in Britain, a government spokes-

Unions, representing 530,000 civil servants have shut down computers normally writing the welfare checks.

With the dispute now 15 weeks old, workers have rejected a state offer of a seven percent wage increase and held out for their own claim of 15 percent. They have held selective strikes and promised last week to step up their action after settlement talks with the government broke down. The government has warned strikers could have their holidays canceled.

Meanwhile, lines of passengers built up at London's two major airports, Heathrow and Gatwick, Friday and hundreds of flights were canceled or delayed as air traffic controllers struck again as part of a 14-week-old civil servants' pay dispute.

Friday's initial disruption — part of a regular pattern of strikes hitting British airports in rotation -- was caused by a seven-hour strike from 0630 GMT by controllers at West Drayton Center, which controls traffie over most of southern England and Wales.

Officials said about half the schedule flights at Heathrow, which handles an average 800 flights a day, were canceled or delayed, with European flights worst hit.

Worse chaos was feared later Friday when controllers on the seven-hour afternoon shift at Heathrow were due to strike from 2.30 p.m. (1330 GMT). This promised further disruption of flights which in previous morning strike have been rescheduled.

"As you can imagine, it is not a nice day," said a spokesman for British Airways, the major carrier out of Heathrow, which canceled two-thirds of its flights Friday. The spokesman said most morning trans-Atlantie flights landed before the strike began.

1979 and 1980, underscored the importance

At last year's summit, the participants of coal in meeting future energy needs.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) - The United States, sometimes dubbed the Saudi Arabia of coal, is likely to commit itself to providing stable and adequate supplies of the fuel to foreign customers, an administration

The Ronald Reagan administration's coal export policy statement, which is receiving finishing touches, also is likely to call for an interagency task force to examine federal regulations hindering the movement of coal to foreign users, the source said Thursday. Reagan has not yet approved the statement, which is expected in be released in about a week, said the source, whn asked not to be identified by name. The United States has recoverable coal reserves of an estimated 400 billion tons and is expected to play a key role in meeting worldwide energy demands in U.S. coal exports reached an all-time high last year of 89.9 million tons, 25.1 million tons more than exported in 1979, said the National Coal Association. Contribution to that surge were increased demand and labor troubles in Poland and Australia.

Total U.S. coal production was 830 million tons in 1980, up from 776 million in 1979, according to figures from the coal association. The lobbying group forecasts exports of 103 million tons in 1985 and 142 million by

The coal export policy statement is expected to contain language reaffirming the United States will remain a stable and reliable supplier of coal in the future years, said the source.

Barring a national emergency, it is likely to say the United States will maintain coal trade under contractural commitments.

The interagency task force on coal exports probably will be asked to look at federal regulations with an eye toward eliminating disincentives to coal exporting, said the source. In particular, it will try to speed up improve-ments in port and harbor facilities and trans-portation systems, he said. The major industrial nations, meeting at economie summits in exports, whose growth has been the subject of increasing concern to European Common Market governments, showed signs of falling off in Western Europe last month, according to figures released here Friday.

Japan's car exports dip

The figures came as Japan's International Trade Minister Rokusuke Tanaka was leaving for talks in Europe on the issue

Toyota, the country's largest car manufacturer, said it shipped 18,349 vehicles to the EEC last month, 22.1 percent below the May 1980 level, while Nissan, the country's second largest producer and maker of Datsun cars, said its exports fell 5.4 percent to 25,034.

Japan is preparing to curb its car exports to Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg after agreeing earlier this week to hold down its exports this year to West Germany to a maximum 10 percent above the 1980 level. Similar agreements have also reached with the United States and Canada.

Meanwhile, Belgium expects to reach an agreement with Japan Monday limiting Japanese car exports, a senior economie affairs ministry official said Friday.

But he said important details remained to be worked out when Belgian Economic Affairs Minister Willy Claes meets Tanaka in Paris Monday.

These included the period for which the Japanese cuts would apply and their exact extent.

The spate of bilateral arrangements with Common Market countries coincides with a tour of the region by Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki. Thursday, the Common Market commission reacted angrily to the agreement between Tokyo and Bonn over cars saying it undermined EEC solidarity.

It requested details from the Bonn government on its new arrangement with Tokyo. A spokesman said the commission, the

TOKYO, June 12 (R) — Japanese car · EEC's top executive body, was "extremely surprised to learn that the reported arrangement had been concluded." EEC Commission President Gaston Thorn would make the commission's position known soon, the spokesman said. The council of ministers has taken the position that agreements with Japan on that country's exports continued to have implications for the community as a whnle. The informal agreement, which observers saw as something of an embarrassment to the free trade-oriented Bonn government, limits the growth of Japanese new car sales in West Germany this year to 10 percent over last year. It will mean a considerable slowdown in the pace of sales for the rest of the year.

London stock market

LONDON, June 12 (R) — The market closed mixed after a quiet session and at 1500 bours, the forward market index was down 3.9 at 532.3.

UK government bonds showed net rises ranged to 1/4 point after an irregular trend and equity leaders closed easier having started narrowly higher in response to Wall Street's gain Thursday, dealers said. Gold shares, U.S. and Canadian stocks were higher.

British Sugar Corp npened 4p down at 311, but quickly rose to 337p after news that and W Berisford and partners had increased their stake in British Sugar to over 30 percent in pursuance of Berisford's increased offer of 335p made May 28. Berisford closed 3p down at 122p.

Pilkington Bros touched a high of 310 after 1980 results before softening to close 15p higher at 308p, but Arthur Guinness eased 7p to 67p fullnwing interim results.

BP, GEC, Lucas, Metal Box, Shell and Blue Circle showed net falls ranging between 2p and 5p, but some late buying pushed up Glazo and ICI 4p and 6p respectively.

U.S. Embassy team snatches top honors

By Laurie Thomas

JEDDAH, June 12 - The new American Ambassador to Saudi Arabia, Robert Neumann, and his wife, were guests of honor at the awards dinner marking the finish of the 16-week Inter-Diplomatic League at the Jeddah Bowling Center, Monday night and by happy coincidence, the U.S. Embassy No. 8 team took top honors. The U.S. No. 1 team and The Philippme Embassy No. 11 team followed in second and third place respectively.

JBC owner Sheikh Samir Dakhil hosted the ceremony and he and Neumann presented 27 trophies to the team and individual winners, before Reumann himself was presented with a bowling ball by JBC manager Naim Shallita. Such was the success of the league that a new league begins oo June 14 with 16 teams participating.

The All-Philipino League also came to a close, and again featured the Embassy team. CDCP took the top awards, closely followed by Ranao Engineers, with the Emhassy in third place. The presentation ceremony was at the Philippine Embassy last Friday (June 12) with the Ambassador presenting the prizes.

Baseball players go on strike

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP) - Majorleague baseball players went on strike early Friday over pay for free agents, but the first midseason strike in the sport's history was expected to bave little effect until game time Friday afternoon.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Associaoon, said in New York that another oegotiation sessinn would be held Friday, although he said be wouldn't attend.

'Reports we've been getting indicate a substantial number of players bave left for home and as soon as everybody knows, the remainder will go home," Miller said. He had said previously that the strike could be headed off until the first game Friday, a National League contest in Chicago between the San Diego Padres and the Cubs. "We have met most of the day and nothing bas been accomplished," said Miller, "The strike is on."

Some progress had appeared Thursday in efforts to avert the strike. Spokesmen for both sides in the dispute said the dub owners had made a new offer on the issue of free-agent compensation, and negntiadons at a New York hotel were recessed for five bours to allow the players to consider the

Miller said the variations dealt with the players' proposal of setting up a pool of players from the 26 major league dubs, from which teams losing free agents could

Battered Matteoli gives up comeback bid for crown

MILAN, Italy June 12 (AP) - A battered, injured Rocky Matteoli definitely gave up hopes of gaining a world middleweight title fight as be failed to answer the bell in the 10th and last round of a fight against Zaire's Clement Tshinza here Thursday night. The Italian-born Australian, whn had dreamed of a sensational comeback to the top-rankings of world boxing, told his manager "Basta" (I've bad eoough), after being repeatedly hit by his opponent for two straight rounds.

"It is the end of Matteoli's career. Something broke inside him," said his manager Umberto Branchini, Matteoli, a 27-year-nld former world champioo, was leading on points at the moment of the withdrawal after shaking Tahinza in the third and sixth rounds, forcing the referee to count him. The defeat at Milan's Iodoor Sports Palace meant cancellation of a match scheduled in August in Australia where Matteoli started boxing and where he is very popular.

Some fans whistled when Matteoli did oot walk into the middle of the ring at the beginning of the 10th round. But most applauded when they understood the champion's

After showing classy and powerful boxing for seven rouods, Matteoli was unable to keep the paec and was forced to stand a strong comeback of Tshinza, who hit him repeatedly in the eight and ninth rounds while Matteoli failed to land any punch.

The 33-year-old Zaire veteran, resident of Belgium who is 13th in the World Boxing Council ratings, proved better in the skirmis and precise in incurring fast left and right

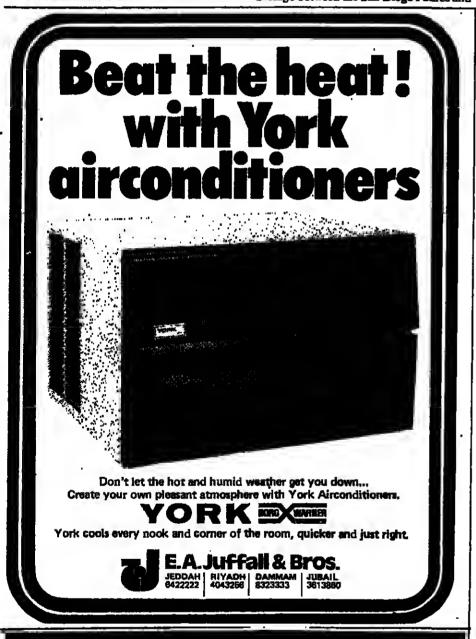

Matteoli, who had decided to quit boxing in July last year after losing a world title fight to Britain's Maurice Hope, changed his mind and renewed a force to win the crown earlier this year.

Io his first match after a nine-mooth retirement, be scored a technical knockout victory over Britain's Steve Hopkins in April. The second fight, which could have gained him a world chance, turned out disasterous.

There are hands where declarer must guess which of two feasible lines of play to pursue. But, in such cases, there are nearly always clues to lead declarer out of the realm of guesswork and into the sphere of precise reason-

The methods employed in this field are certainly not a state secret. Basically, what declarer does is assemble all the information he possibly can about the defenders' hands before committing himself to the crucial play. Take this deal where the only problem is which way to take the two-way heart finesse. South wins the club lead with the ace, draws trumps, cashes the A-K-Q of diamonds and exits with a If West winds up on lead with the jack, the contest is over because he is forced to return a heart and relieve declarer of the guess in that suit. So let's assume that East wins the club with the king and continues with the ten. South ruffs and can no longer avoid the crucial question of which way to take the heart finesse. . All the same, his methods have proved successful. West has shown up with precisely three spades, two diamonds and two clubs — neither more nor less - and hence must have started with exactly six hearts. Cross-checking this East has shown up with precisely one spade, five diamonds and six clubs hence he must have started with a singleton heart.

Accordingly, South cashes the king of hearts, forcing East to follow suit with his only heart, and takes a heart finesse through West in the assurance that the finesse will succeed. @ 1981 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It's not the time to sign papers. Business negotiations are tricky, but you'll reach important agreements with family members.

(Apr. 20 to May 20) A misunderstanding could arise with a close tie regarding money. But now's the time to iron out problems. Harmony will reign!

(May 21 to June 20) Be cordial with co-workers. There's no sense in hassling with each other. Together, you'll come up with positive and workable solutions. CANCER

(June 21 to July 22) Sidestep clandestine meetings. Tacit differences could affect communications with loved ones. Now's the time to open up to each other.

(July 23 to Aug. 22)
It's not the best time for company. A family member would appreciate some privacy. A noontime meeting has a romantic quality.

(Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Steer clear of controversial career topics, and relations with others will be smooth.

5 Polish ministers dropped

Premier seeks talks with union WARSAW June 12 (AP) — Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski Friday dropped five cabinet ministers, including one criticized for hampering the iovestigation into the beating of three unioo memhers. He proposed a major cabinet reshuffle aimed at avoiding Poland's economie " ruio. '

Jaruzelski, io a speech to the Sejm, or par-liameot, also said he was ready to discuss with Poland's trade unions, including the independent union Solidarity, ways to increase production of coal. "It was said that it was our gold," Jaruzelski said of coal." I call it oxygen. We can live without gold hut without oxygen there is no life.

Jaruzelski also said Poles must halt declining productivity and growing absenteeism. power if Poland is to survive its economic crisis.

The ministers dropped included Deputy Premier Henryk Kisiel and Justice Minister Jerzy Bafia. Kisiel, a long-time economie official, was planning commission chief and a former finance minister.

Jaruzelski said Kisiel was dropped for " health reasons. " But a receot report on the economy prepared under his guidance was sharply criticized and rejected by both the Sejm and Jaruzelski. He has also been criticized by the Polish oews media at a nime when many officials have come under fire or been ousted for their role in leading the natioo into ecocomic crisis.

On Thursday, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa gave Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania a boost in his confrontation with the Soviets and told the Polish labor movement to stick to hread-and-hutter issues aod curtail political activity.

Walesa told union members at the Warsaw auto factory Thursday Solidarity has been too wrapped up in confrontation and paid too much attention to " matters not concerning us," Warsaw radio reported.

The Soviet Communist Party this week accused Kania and other leaders of the Polish party of succumbing to "counterrevolutiooary activities" fomented by the "extremist wing" of Solidarity. The Soviet letter hinted that the party should replace Kania and Jaruzelski, who have been sympathetic toward liberal reforms within the party.

Meanwhile, the official Soviet Tass news agency charged Friday that leaflets attacking the Soviet Uoioo and the Polish Communist Party leadership were cootinuing to circulate in Warsaw despite a pledge by the Polish leaders to stop them. The six-line Tass despatch from Warsaw clearly implied that nothing was being done to implement the Polish party's promise to put its house io order, made after a crucial central committee meeting this week.

The despatch was the first oews from Poland published here since the end of the central committee meeting, at which first secretary Kania survived a hardline challenge to his leadership.

The Tass report was clearly written to suggest impatience in Moscow with the lack of any firm crackdown by the Polish party leadership. In a highly critical letter to the Polish party last week, the Soviet Communist Party leadership complained that Kania and his colleagues had talked about taking a firm line against anti-Socialist forces, but had done oothing.

The letter was published in full in the Soviet party daily Pravda Friday, though it was originally not intended for release. The failure of Polish authorities to curb the press and to stamp out " samizdat " publications has been one of Moscow's main concerns about the liberalization of the past few Io Vienoa, Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu said Friday that European security would be endangered if Poland did not maintain its Communist system.

On a third subject, Haig said at a news conference that his talks io China beginning Sunday should not be seen as an arms-selling mission for either China or Taipei. Haig arrived in Hong Kong Friday for two days of rest and preparation before a three-day visit to China. On Poland, Haig denounced what he described as a "very threatening letter" from the Soviets to Polish leaders, in which the Soviets demanded that the Polish Communist Party take firmer action against the labor movement there. It hinted at possible military action to protect Soviet interests.

'Clearly if there should he Soviet interveotioo in Poland, it would have a major impact on the full-range of East-West relations including the scheduled talks on theater nuclear force," Haig said, referring to plans to mitiate discussions with the Soviets regarding deployment of medium-range noclear missiles in Europe.

"At a time when the situation in Poland is again seriously deteriorating, threats and threatening letters from Russia do not serve a useful purpose," he said. "It is our firm view that the people of Poland should be left alone to determine their own future cause," Haig

Haig seemed to he urging moderate Arab position to mute their anger over Israel's bombing of the Iraqi ouclear facility and turn their attention to the two-pronged efforts to bring about a peaceful resolution in Lebanco and further the cause for an Arab-Israeli

He said that while the bombing has had "an unsettling effect on the Lehanese peace missioo, it is my hope that all the parties involved will recognize that the long-term objectives of the peace process far outweigh the current tensions associated with the Israeli raid..."

Haig said the Middle East tensions are 'again on the rise". in the wake of the Israeli raid, adding thet "this situation underlines the urgency of a short-term and long-term peacekeeping process." He said the United States wants a prompt resolution of Palestinian autocomy talks immediately following the June 30 elections in Israel as well as an early completion of the oegotiations for withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian Sinai.

Karmal's close friend named prime minister

NEW DELHI, June 12 (Agencies) — President Bahrak Karmal of Afghanistan appears to have strengthened his position by naming a close supporter as prime minister in a government and party reshuffle in Kabul, dip-lomatic sources said here Friday.

Kabul Radio, monitored in New Delhi

Thursday night, announced that Sultan Ali Kishtmand 46, a member of Karmal's Parcham faction of the ruling People's Democratic Party (PDP) was the new prime minister.

The diplomatic sources said the reorganization, which includes the moving of several of Karmal's key Parcham supporters into an expanded presidium and Politburo of the party, appeared to put him in a stronger positioo over the rival Khalq group in the party.

The first Deputy Prime Minister and Justice Minister Abdurrashid Aryan was removed from both posts and appointed to the presidium of the Revolutionary Council, the radio said.

The conflicts in the party had held up a government reorganization promised by Karmal last April, the diplomatic sources said. The changes announced Thorsday at a session of the Afghao Revolutiooary Council were originally scheduled to take place in

Since he took power in a Soviet-backed coop at the end of 1979, Karmal has held all three top jobs in Afghan politics - president of the Revolutionary Council, the post which makes him head of state, prime winister, and general secretary of the PDP.

Kabul Radio said the Revolutionary Council made a number of new government appointments and reorganized its own presidium, while the central committee of the PDP, which also met Thursday, made a series of changes in its politburo, secretariat and membership.

The new prime minister remains as chariman of the state planning commission and contioues as a member of the party politburo, but has given up his position as number two in the Revolutionary Council. His two deputies are Gol Dad, who is minister of higher educa-tion, and Abdul-Majid Sarboland, minister of information and culture, the radio said. Educatioo Minister Anahita Ratebzad, a close supporter of Karmal, was elected to the presidium of the Revolutionary Council. Fagir Muhammad Yaqubi was named as nev education minister. Communications Minister Muhammad Aslam Watanjar, who is also head of the Kabul military region, and Defense Minister Muhammad Rafie were appointed members of the ruling party's politburo. A third member named was Najibullah.

The new Afghan prime minister, had an unspectacular start to his political career in 1965 when he stook for a scat in the lower house of parliament and lost, A founder member of the PDP, Kishtmand joined the party central committee in 1966. When the party split into two factions, Kishtmand joined the Parcham faction led by Karmal.

After the overthrow of Afghan President Sardar Daoud in April 1978, Kishtmand became planning minister in the Taraki governmeot. But he was later dismissed, and in August 1978 accused of plotting against the government.

After the Soviet armed intervention in December 1979 and installation of Karmal as president, Kishtmand was made deputy prime minister and minister of planning.

14 die in train mishap

BERLIN, June 12 (AFP) — At least 14 persons were killed and 93 injured when a passenger train derailed oear the East German town of Erfurt, during a trip from Dusseldorf, West Germany, to Karl-Marx-Stadt (Chemnitz), East Germany, the East German oews agency ADN reported.

Two of the m jured were in extremely criti-cal condition, while 41 others were reported to have been hurt only slightly, ADN said. Seven coaches derailed about six kms outside Erfurt train station, about 70 kms soothwest of Leipzig. Five of the cars jumped the tracks completely, ADN said.

Pneumonia toll rises MADRID, June 12 (AFP) — Three more persons died of "atypical poeumonia" Friday, bringing to 28 the oumber of those who have succumbed to the killer disease since it appeard in Spain a month and a half ago.

Spanish health officials have not yet definitely found the source of the illness, although Dr. Luis Valenciano, director of the Spanish health office, has said that all of the victims had consumed salad oil that had been adulterated. Analysis of the oil has revealed the presence of molecules of aromatic es, toxie substances foreign to the oil, official sources said.

Good Morning |

A few columns back I gave you my considered thoughts on some so-called "normal" business practices which to me looked and smelt highly abnormal; mainly the question of "built-in obsolescence". Today, You'll have the benefit of my views on the business of advertising.

Now, before we go into this, show mea journalist who criticizes advertising and I'll show a man biting the hand that feeds him. The honest pennies which you, dear readers, pay us for our wares, are all very welcome and we would be deeply burn if you don't pay them.

They represent, however, only the hread keeping together our souls and bodies. The hutter we get, not to say the occasional dollop of jam, come from the advertising we carry. And man does not live by hread alone. It's for this reason that I have to start with acknowledging the very high standard of responsibility and probity exhibited by all our advertisers. and to tell them that it's television advertising is what I'm after, so keep the good work up!

As for the other advertising, its main assumption seems to be the shallowness and lack of memory of customers. They think that by putting a beautiful woman in the picture, tastefully draped over the car or fridge they want you to buy, all their prob-lems will be solved, with you rushing mesmerized to the nearest retailer to buy the goods.

But read the ad and think of what it says: and there the message is unvarying. It's always the oew, improved hrand X, a veritable hreakthrough in the science of floor cleaning or whatever which you simply have to go and buy. But, you think brand X has been with us for a long time. How was it advertised before? And the memory comes hack. Brand X pure and simple, before the oew, improved version, was also called a breakthrough in that same science, and it too made floors shine as never before in human history and that it was so good no improvements on it could have been made. In view of their improved brand X, therefore, that claim was a lie. And if they hed then.. Translated from Ashraq Al Awsa

French poll begins tomorrow

PARIS, June 12 (AP) — As the campaign for the first round in the legislative election drew to a close Friday, the choice before French voters was clear - give President Francois Mitterrand a majority to carry out his Socialist programs or elect a conservative counterweight to the new government.

Based on the polls, the president should have little trouble winning the leftist majority he needs in the two-round election that begins Sunday, leaving open only the questioo of just how hig that majority will he and what shape it will take.

With more than 2,700 candidates fighting for the 491 seats in the National Assembly and each constituency having its own unique

Italians mount rescue for boy trapped in well

ROME, Juoe 12 (AFP) - Italian President Sandro Pertini went to the village of Vermicino Friday, where a rescue team burrowing deep down into the earth was nearing 6-year-old Alfredo Rampi who has been trapped in a well shaft for nearly two days.

Pertini — unable to hide is emotioo at seeing the effort to rescue little Alfredo, whose leg was broken during his fall down the well Wednesday - was enthusiastically applauded by a crowd of onlookers gathered at the Rampi : home in Vermicino, about 40 kms outside the capital.

Rescuers, meanwile, were reportedly having trouble determining the exact depth where the child was caught. The well, 36 meters deep, is only 30 cms wide, making it impossible for anyone to climb down and retrieve the boy.

Early Thursday, rescue workers began digging a parallel shaft in order to tunnel through to the well, but they struck a deep bed of solid rock. A power drill was brought in, and it took all night to bore through the rock face. Meanwhile, doctors said Friday that Alfredo, who has a heart condition, was showing increasing signs of character, it is nearly impossible to predict how the seats will be broken down among the parties. But the polls indicate that between 52.5 and 54 percent of the voters favor the Mitterrand is confident that the sentiment for change that culminated in his victory over President Valery Giscard d'Estaing May 10 will continue through Sunday's voting and the second round June 21. The conservatives - Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac's Gaullists and the centrist Union for French Democracy (UDF) believe otherwise, at least publicly. Chirac and UDF President Jean Lecanuet say the right's defeat in the presidential election was a personal rejection of Giscard d'Estaing aided, by the defection of a number of voters who normally supported the former governing coalition.

"The voters who wanted to change the president do not all believe that as a consequence they must now change our society, Lecanuet wrote in the Paris daily Le Monde. Chirac and Lecanuet, leading the fight for the right, have repeatedly accused the Mitterrand government of refusing to make its future intentions clear, particularly the question of whether there will be Communist tion of whether there will be Com ministers in the post-election government. As the conservative newspaper Le Figure put it, "the choice is clesr: either a leap into the unknown in the case of success by the left or an insurance against risk in returning the outgoing parliamentary majority." Uoder the French system, a candidate must win 50 percent or more of the votes to be. elected in the first round. In districts where no candidate gets at least half the vote, those with 12.5 percent or more meet in a runoff, with the highest vote-getter winning election

The Socialists and Communists have agreed to back the best-placed leftist candr. date in the second round in order to enhance their chances. The Gaullists and the UDF are: running outstanding candidates in 350 de tricts and have agreed to back their best placed men in the second round in the other

In Loodon, Sheikh Nasser Al Manqour, the Saudi Arabian ambassador described the visit as "highly successful" saying it would lead to positive results in further improving hilateral relations and mutual cooperatioo.

The talks between King Khaled, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington covered the Mideast situation and what was considered the "extremely dangerous" consequences of the Israeli raid on the Iraqi nuclear reactor.

But Reagan has pledged the U.S. will maintain close ties with Israel despite its disapproval of Israel's attack on Iraq, and he told Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron

"There is no fundamental re-evaluation of-U.S. relations with Israel. Israel is an important ally of the United States in the region," Reagan also told the Arab ambassadors

Thursday night they had sought British influence in trying to suspend economic and military aid to Israel. The ambassador of Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, the United Arab Emirates (UAE), Algeria and Kuwait met Britain's Deputy Foreign Secretary Sir Ian Gilmour. British officials said the meeting was at the request of the UAE.

Both governments coodenned the attack and according to informed sources described the action as "unjustifiable" and motivated by electoral considerations of Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

Lord Carrington, who next mouth takes over the presidency of the European Economic Community Council, said the raid has foiled prospects for the EEC's own peace bid for some time.

The talks between the King and Thatcher dealt with the need to strengthen relations in every area and included the situation in the Middle East, the Palestinian question, the European initiative, the Israeli aggression on Iraq and the Soviet occupation of Afghanis-
